78. HALE, Edward E. Kansas and Nebraska: The History, Geographical and Physical Characteristics, and Political Position of Those Territories; An Account of the Emigrant Aid Companies, and Directions to Emigrants. Boston: Phillips, Sampson and Company, 1854. 8vo. 256 pp, 4 pp advertisements at end. Folding lithographed frontispiece map. Original brown embossed cloth, gilt-lettered on spine. A very good copy, spine slightly sunned, map with pale dampstain.

FIRST EDITION of one of the earliest – if not the earliest – books on Kansas, considered the best book on the emigration occasioned by the Kansas-Nebraska Act. Hale gives an historical survey of Kansas, an account of the Indian tribes, and a detailed description of the soil, rivers, settlements, railroads, and projected cities in Kansas and Nebraska. Of particular interest is information on emigrant aid companies, emigration from the West (including of Chinese from California), the suitability and promise of the territory for emigrants and a significant discussion of the fugitive slave question, the Missouri Compromise, women's rights, suffrage, and the railroad. The "Map of Kansas & Nebraska from the Original Surveys" (17x18.7 cm) has Nebraska including present-day Wyoming, Montana and adjacent areas. The map is one of three published in 1854 showing Kansas. Graff 1709; Sabin 2964; Wagner-Camp-Becker 239a. (403804)

100. LAKES, Arthur. Profile Map of Engineer Mountain, Mineral Point Mountain, Animas Forks, and Surrounding Region, with General Description of Mines. History and Geology of the San Juan. Golden, CO: [1882]. 8vo. 12 pp. Folding panoramic view map: "Profile Map of Locations of Mines Near Animas Forks and Mineral City, San Juan County, Colorado," 7 3/4 x 46 1/2 inches. Original brown pebbled cloth, gilt-lettered on front cover. A near-fine copy.

SCARCE FIRST EDITION. Inscribed on the title: "With Capt. W. McFarlane's Compliments 1883 to G. St. Jones Gutyn Arfon." Includes an early history of San Juan, and brief descriptions of all of the mines. Very scarce: only one other copy has sold at auction since the Streeter copy in 1968.

"This is quite worth-while because of Prof. Lake's historical sketch of the district and his brief resumé of upwards of thirty mines in the district. He says that the Baker party which explored the region in 1860 was largely cut down by the Indians and that no white men came into the region again until 1870 when the 'Little Giant Mine' was discovered near what became Silverton. The long folding map at the end shows the location of many mines and the topography of the region" (Streeter sale IV:2205). Wynar 3766. (403783)

101. LEGARD, Allayne B. Colorado. London: Chapman and Hall, 1872. 8vo. 170 pp. Original green cloth. Library stamps and pencilings, gift inscription on pastedown, wear at extremities.

FIRST EDITION. A privately circulated journal. Its preface reminded "those to whom it is sent... not to part with [their copies] as, for obvious reasons, he would not like the book to get into the hands of those with whom he is unacquainted." The gift inscription on the pastedown directs the recipient's attention to this detail. "The author was an Englishman and his "obvious reasons" are indeed apparent on reading the book, for his criticisms are by no means always favorable to Americans" (Rosenbach 8-686: "very rare"). 103. [LOOMIS, John Lewis]. Leadville Colorado. The Most Wonderful Mining Camp in the World. Colorado Springs: Gazette Publishing Company, 1879. 8vo. 44 pp. Original orange printed wrappers. A near-fine copy in slightly soiled wrappers. Provenance: Library of Congress (duplicate stamp on title).

FIRST EDITION. "Mr. J. L. Loomis, of Leadville, wrote to the Gazette during this year several valuable letters on Leadville which have been largely quoted throughout the country. As these letters were found to possess precise and desirable information, we reprint them in pamphlet form, together with some other interesting material" (Preface). Describes the characteristics of the mines and their ores, a history of the discovery, followed by a description of the burgeoning city three months after. At end are the Mining Laws, and a glossary of mining terms. Howes L463; Streeter sale IV:2195; Wynar 1122. In entirely original condition. (403720)

106. MACOMB, Capt. J. N. and J. S. NEWBERRY. Report of the Exploring Expedition from Santa Fe, New Mexico, to the Junction of the Grand and Green Rivers of the Great Colorado of the West in 1859 under the Command of Capt. J. N. Macomb. Washington, D. C.: Government Printing Office, 1876. 4to. ii, [1], 152 pp. 11 fine chromolithographic and 11 lithographic plates. Large folding map. Original black cloth. Spine perished, light intermittent spotting.

FIRST EDITION. Macomb's expedition "showed conclusively that no feasible supply route existed leading into the Great Basin from that direction. However, in the realm of geography and geology its implications were considerable. The whole drainage of the San Juan had been traced and the relationship of that river with the Colorado clearly established. More important, they had also established that the Green River united with the Grand to form the Colorado. The entire maze of intricate canyon country had been threaded, and its geography revealed for the first time. In addition, Newberry was able to establish numerous stratigraphic columns, and to trace the Triassic, Jurassic, and Carboniferous strata far out across the Colorado River. Newberry introduced a new level of sophistication into the study of western geology. Of Newberry it might be said that more than any other scientist since Frémont he had opened up new and unknown country to the civilized world" (Goetzmann, 'Army Exploration in the American West').
